

AA IN CHURCH LEADERSHIP

CARLOS Camp Director

When I look back at my faith journey, some of my fondest and most profound moments came from summers I spent at camp. There, I grew spiritually, socially, and emotionally, and was proud to celebrate my peers as they did the same. That's why I knew that becoming a camp director, and helping other young people develop those life skills, was the choice for me. My Associate's degree in Church Leadership helped me hone my skills in talking about Christ and in talking with people. It was an invaluable experience that I call on everyday.

NAOMI Counselor

I've felt called to work in ministry from a young age, but as someone who prefers building one-on-one relationships, I knew that leading a congregation was not the right choice for me. Instead, I pursued a career in counseling, knowing that I could help people grow in their faith as we worked through their problems. One of the most valuable parts of my career that came from my time at NCU is all of the friends that I made along the way ... Now, I have a community of resources that I can call on to help my clients live healthier, happier lives.

DANIEL Campus Ministry

Right out of high school I knew I wanted to be involved in campus ministry. Finding the training I needed on the timeline I wanted didn't seem possible at first, but a colleague pointed me towards getting my ministry AA, specifically with NCU's online program. It was EXACTLY what I was looking for and putting lessons I learned to work in the ministry field, ironically enough, on a college campus."
